Svetlana Kim is the author of White Pearl and I: A Memoir of a Political Refugee, which chronicles her journey from Russia to the United States, where she arrived with only one dollar in her pocket and not a single word of English at her disposal; today, she is a leader among her peers in the business world, and has been honored with numerous awards citing her commitment, skill, and integrity.

Svetlana Kim was selected to be a Spokesperson for the 2011 Macy's Asian Pacific American Heritage Month and on May 11, 2009, Svetlana was recognized with the Daily Point of Light Award (Award Number: 3983) by Points of Light Institute created by the administration of President George H.B. Bush to honor individuals creating meaningful change in communities across America.

Kim has been featured and profiled in The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Post, The Huffington Post, MSN Money, MSNBC, Women's Life magazine in Seoul, Korea; the Asian Fortune; Networking Times; NASDAQ's Closing Bell; and The Gazette, a publication of the Library of Congress.

Kim shares her business acumen and managerial experience by serving on several boards of directors, including:

- The Asian Division Friends Society of the Library of Congress (Board member since 2007, Board Vice President, 2010-2013, Chair of Finance Committee, 2013-present)
- The Global Executive Board of the Euro-American Women's Council (2007-2012)
- The National Council of Asian American Business Associations (East Coast President, 2009 – 2011)
- The Pacific Coast Immigration Museum (Board member, 2009-present)
- The Harvard Business Review Advisory Council (2013-present)
- The Edie Hand Foundation (Board Member 2016- present)

Lana Kim takes her commitment to local charities seriously and has donated over 180 hours to the Calvary Women's Services in Chinatown in Washington, D.C. Additionally, she volunteered at the Office of Presidential Correspondence in the White House.

Svetlana is married and resides in the San Francisco Bay Area with her husband.
